Last Rites of Class of 1914 at Topeka School.

Sixty-six students who received di-Plomas today are entitled to shout,
"Rah, rah, rah, Washburn—Alumni!"
Fourteen were awarded high or departmental honors. With a background of one of the most picturesque campuses in the country the forty-ninth annual commencement of Washburn was staged. Exercises were held in MacVicar chapel at 10:30. The chapel was comfortably filled. Spectators blocked the doorway during the conferring of degrees. The college presented the seal of honorary doctor of law to Jake Mohler, tate secretary of agriculture.

Full of life and color was the scene in and out, around and about the try-tucked buildings today. Seniors in sedate black gowns, law graduates in purple hoods and music students nas today are entitled to shout

Senior Colors Predominated.

Green and white, the senior colors, substituted blue and white, the college colors, in the decoration of the chapel. The graduates' seats were roped off with green and white; lilies and palms lined the platform. During the procession of the seniors, wearing caps and, gowns. Dean Whitehouse played Bach's "Chorale." Rev. Roy Guild offered the invocation. The Washburn college choir sang Tschaikowski's "O Praise Ye God."

"Later did you see Mrs. West as she came back to the governor's office?"

"Yes. Possibly five minutes later. She stepped into the southwest room, looked into the governor's private office, did not speak to anyone. Stayed a few seconds and went out."

"How far apart were the governor and Mrs. West?" Naughty Nighty Parade.

The usual nightshirt parade was held last night. Farewell parties were held at the sorority houses in the evening. The Kappa Alpha Thetas held their first initiation. Then the girls turned out the lights—with giggles—and awaited the coming of the ghostly parade. The boys formed at the Phi Delta Theta headquarters and wound gravely to Holbrook, the Beta, the Kappa, and the Theta homes. Having announced their arrival by clog dances on the planzas they stole silently into the yards where they turned somersaults and performer other acrobatic feats. Several belated automobile parties witnesses the performance with glee.

m Reports Furnished by the Substations of the Local Office of Weather Bureau.

The heaviest rains of the month fell in the southwest part of the state, where a large number of counties had from 4 to 8 inches. The eastern half of the state received only about half the normal amount, but there were practically no counties except the extreme northern and northeastern part that had less than 2 inches during the
